No speculative features. Annual Returns of Surplus Premium and Yearly Progressive Cash Surrender, and Paid up Insurance Values, fixed by Massachusetts law, endorsed on them, protect all policies issued by this company from forfeiture, and give them also the character to such extent of yearly increasing and four per cent compound interest bearing Bonds, with possible surplus interest paid in annual returns.

The conditions of all policies are plain, simple and liberal in all other respects.

Special attention is called to the fact that this company issues Endowment Policies embracing all the above advantages for the same premiums formerly charged for policies payable only at death, under the title of Life rate Endowments. Such policies challenge all competition as regards the amount and low cost of insurance, which they combine with investment as above, reaching half the full amount within the mean expectation of life, and the full amount in a few years later.

SULLIVAN GETS GATE MONEY

A New York Stock Broker Killed by a Texan—Important Pension Decision—A New Torpedo Boat Made—News Notes

A NEW TERROR OF THE SEAS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—[Special.] The Times says: Laborers have been at work several months in the ruins of Fort Lafayette on construction of a torpedo boat, which if successful will prove a submarine wonder that will startle the world. The boat consists mainly of wood and is fifty feet long and eight feet in diameter. Its shape is like a cigar. The head is designed to constitute a sharp ram, which when driven by the prodigious strength contemplated will perforate the iron plating of a ship, and then by a retrograde motion quickly withdraw itself. This ram looks like the snout of a hog, built of steel and has [illegible] ridges of sharp steel [illegible] intended to facilitate its operations. On top of the craft and in its center is a small iron turret, surrounded with little electric lights to aid in steering. Between this turret and the ram at the head is an aperture, at the mouth of which is a dynamite gun, this being hidden from view. Directly over the gun and [illegible] the deck of the vessel is a sharp [illegible] steel. It is intended to use this to attack [illegible] small crafts or other torpedo boats by rising suddenly from under [illegible] them and piercing them. The [illegible] ingenuity in the manner [illegible] horizontally and [illegible] The [illegible] of the [illegible] constructed like an [illegible] propeller. Its machinery is [illegible] twin [illegible] engines. [illegible] turning a boom in the [illegible] for the torpedo boat that [illegible] retiring to a distance fired dynamite into [illegible] vessel as often as necessary. To discharge [illegible] dynamite the boat merely shows itself [illegible] a few seconds and never comes up at the same point twice. It will be impossible for the enemy to bear a gun on it successfully even if it were exposed entirely. In the new vessel many features of especial superiority are claimed. These are accuracy of movement and certainty of destruction, safe concealment from view of the enemy, with desired ability to move faster under water and make a greater distance without rising to the [illegible] and to project dynamite further than ever heretofore demonstrated.

COHEN RECOVERS JUDGMENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Judge Vanvorst of the supreme court rendered a decision upon a demurrer interposed by Winslow, Lanier & Co., bankers, to the complaint of Alfred A. Cohen, a San Francisco lawyer, who brought suit against them to set aside a sale by them to him of $200,000 of the first mortgage bonds of the New York, West Shore & Buffalo railroad, for which he paid $170,000, and to compel repayment to him of that sum with interest from August, 1883, when the transaction took place. Cohen was a depositor of Winslow, Lanier & Co. and had entire confidence in the firm. He charges that the firm was connected with the railroad and construction company and knew all about the affairs of both, and that he had been induced to make an investment of bonds by fraudulent representation as to the condition of the company; also that at the time of his purchase he was sick and unable to make proper inquiries as to the conditions, that they concealed certain information regarding the solvency of the company and that they had a special interest in the sale of West Shore bonds. As the bonds did not turn out to be as good as the bankers had represented, Cohen brought this suit to have the agreement under which he made the purchase set aside and his money refunded upon the return of the bonds. Winslow, Lanier & Co. put in a demurrer to the complaint upon the ground that it did not show facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. The judge to-day gave judgment for plaintiff on demurrer, with leave to defendants to answer on payment of costs. The judge holds that Cohen is entitled to redress and that the demurrer cannot be sustained, as plaintiff has shown good cause of action in equity.

THE SOCIAL SCIENCE CONVENTION

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 31.—In the social convention "The Science of Statistical Analysis" by C. S. Hill was the first paper of the afternoon. He considered the importance of the analysis of statistics as affecting all interests of this and other countries and showed what has already been done in their collection by our government. John Miller argued for social economy, claiming that it is possible to live well on from thirty to forty cents a day. He believed that people lived too much on those things which are not necessary. He also insists on allowing the stomach's digestive organs to have a period of rest. The establishment of more work shops was his method for overcoming the trouble between labor and capital. In the succeeding discussion socialism or communism was pronounced a failure and the working out of the life problem was said to be a personal matter which each must work for himself. The mathematicians considered but one technical paper before they adjourned. The physicists met in the afternoon and discussed papers which were of interest only to specialists. Such was also the case with the chemists, excepting a discussion in which it was held that a knowledge of molecular physics is necessary for one who would be a theoretical chemist. The section of mechanical science has adjourned until next year.

AN ELEPHANT CREATES WILD EXCITEMENT

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Early this morning a large elephant connected with a circus here broke loose and pulling down part of the tent rushed around the enclosure wildly. Great excitement ensued, being increased by the cries of other animals. Employes ran out calling for police, but the latter declined to assist. In the effort to capture him a young man named John Kimberline, a resident of Altoona, was picked up by the elephant and hurled a long distance, receiving serious injuries. Eventually the force of workmen secured the fractious beast.

THE TEXAS STRIKE

GALVESTON, Aug. 31.—In accordance with an agreement entered into last evening between the Gulf & Santa Fe Railroad company and the Knights of Labor the business of that line has been resumed. The conference committee is still in session and expects to reach an equitable adjustment of points of difference. It is reported that everything is moving harmoniously toward a satisfactory settlement.

THE VIRGINIA ELECTION

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Dispatches from Virginia show the republicans there look for success at the polls this fall. They are doing careful work, and the speeches of their campaign orators seem to have great effect. Protection to America's labor is a doctrine particularly well received. The democrats are late in the field. Quarrels over federal spoils are reported to prevail among them.

DECLINES TO SERVE

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Hon. John F. Russell, secretary of the state board of agriculture, has written a letter declining an invitation to preside over the coming democratic state convention on the ground that as a member of a board appointed without regard to politics his acceptance would not be an example of the true principle of civil service reform.

THE GRANT FAMILY IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Col. Fred Grant, Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Sartoris arrived at the Fifth Avenue hotel this evening. The party will remain at the hotel until Wednesday, when Mrs. Sartoris will sail for Europe. Mrs. Grant will then go to Westchester county to visit her son.

THE CATTLEMEN WILL FIGHT.

Ben Butler will Combat the President's Recent Orders Removing Cattle from Indian Territory

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A Long Branch special to the Herald says: The Herald published recently a telegram announcing that Gen. Benjamin F. Butler had paid a visit to Block island about which there was more or less mystery. Among the guests in Hildreth's West End hotel this evening is Col. George B. Corkhill, formerly district attorney of the District of Columbia. Col. Corkhill is a son-in-law of Judge Miller, probably the highest authority on constitutional law now on the bench of the United States supreme court, and as Gen. Butler's call was on Judge Miller, who passed the summer at Block island, and as Col. Corkhill was present at the Block island interview, your correspondent asked him to explain the object of Butler's call on Justice Miller. Col. Corkhill said:

"There was no political significance in his coming, but a great deal of business, which will in the remote future make matters lively in the White house and elsewhere. I don't think there is any secrecy concerning it nor any attempt to conceal the real subject. The real cause of the visit was the order of President Cleveland directing owners of cattle on Indian lands in the west to vacate their grazing grounds. Gen. Butler is himself one of the proprietors of a large ranch and his clients and personal friends represent many million dollars of capital thus invested. The order is therefore of very great consequence and importance to them."

WILL SEE THE PRESIDENT

He was preparing to see the president of the United States, and the object of his visit was to ask a preliminary order restraining execution of the proclamation of the president until the question could be determined by the court. Gen. Butler's object was to present the matter to Judge Miller, Judge Blatchford being absent from his circuit and not easy of access. Gen. Butler, as I have said, represents many millions of dollars invested by his clients and presented very cogent reasons for some order that would protect them. The desired order was not issued and I did not hear any of the conversation with Justice Miller about it, and I do not know what his views upon the question are." Col. Corkhill then said: "There had undoubtedly been great frauds committed, yet many honest men had invested money in this business, supposing everything to be honest and legal. Now the order of President Cleveland is peremptory, summary and dictatorial, says they must go, and go at once. Over this order there will surely be a fight. The cattle will not be moved. You could not move a colored picnic, let alone 5,000,000 head of cattle, by any proclamation let it issue from the president or any one else. Yes, a fight will be made. It involves important questions, the right of property, power of Indians to make contracts and power and authority of government to interfere. Of one thing rest assured, the cattle will stay and the fight will go on. We have no autocrat in this country. If a landlord wants to put you out of a house he goes to the courts, not to the president. If a contract has been violated we go to the courts, not to the executive. As to what Justice Miller decided I do not know. He did not grant the injunction. No overt act has been committed. The president had simply issued orders. If nobody obeyed that was the end of it unless he attempted to enforce it, and then another question would arise."

THE PRESIDENT'S ORDER TO BE OBEYED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The period of forty days fixed by the president in his proclamation ordering removal of cattle [illegible] from the Cheyenne and Arapahoe agency in Indian territory expires to-morrow. The secretary of the interior has received advices from the territory indicating the purpose of ranchers to comply with the terms of the proclamation to the best of their ability and [illegible] head of cattle are now on foot en route [illegible] and territories. It is not believed [illegible] regardless of military forces will be [illegible] complete evacuation of the territory. [illegible] it is said to prevail among cattle men [illegible] order of the president calling for removal of fences on public lands will not be forced. It is [illegible] at the department, however, that this order will be enforced to the [illegible] and with [illegible] force if necessary.

CATTLEMEN THINK THERE IS A MISTAKE

[illegible] Aug. 31.—Cattlemen here referring to [illegible] application by Gen. Butler to Judge Miller [illegible] United States supreme court for an [illegible] of the president's [illegible] the Cheyenne and Arapahoe [illegible] of cattle [illegible] they think a [illegible] that if [illegible] applied for an injunction [illegible] the president for the removal of fences [illegible]

Mr. [illegible] B. [illegible] of [illegible] Cattle [illegible] says he has heard [illegible] the [illegible] says [illegible] are using every [illegible] comply with the president's order that [illegible] the cattle are already off the reservation [illegible] out of it within a [illegible] days.

Mr. A. [illegible] of the firm of Hunter & Evans states that the [illegible] that there is the great [illegible] cattle [illegible] of the reservation and that every exertion is being made to get their herds off the land as speedily as possible. He is satisfied that the reservation will be cleared very soon after the time allowed by the president's order expires.

Mr. Pollard, of the law firm of Taylor & Pollard, who represents legally a large number of cattle men, says he has no knowledge of such action and thinks the injunction mentioned refers to the fence moving orders.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

A STOCK BROKER KILLED

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—About 2 o'clock this afternoon Tom Davis, otherwise known as Wm. W[illegible], was shot and killed in a room which he called his office at No. 111 Reade street by a man who gives his name as James T. Holland, and says he is [illegible] and that he came here from Abilene, Kansas. Davis is a well known sporting man and occupied this room for several years conducting an alleged brokerage business in mining and other stocks. The room is only about six feet by ten, lighted by a single window and is filthy in the extreme. Davis's brother, of the murdered man, was present at the time of the shooting and tumbled down two flights of stairs in his haste to get away. As Holland was walking rapidly away from the scene, Dr. Davis pointed him out to a policeman who arrested him. Holland was reticent about the matter, asserting that the killing was justifiable. It is supposed the shooting grew out of some transaction in stocks. When searched at the station a heavy revolver, $100 in money and two gold watches were found on him. In the right hand of the dead man was a $5 bill, and scattered about the floor were bonds of the value of $500. In his desk were a large quantity of apparent securities, among them $20,000 in bonds of the City of [illegible] Illinois [illegible] has [illegible] supervisor and W. O. [illegible] clerk. The desk also contained stock shares of the Mining Company of [illegible] and [illegible] Mill and Mining Company. Davis was shot twice, once through the breast [illegible] the neck. Little or nothing is known of Holland. It is said he has used several names and came from Colorado. He is about 5 feet 11 inches high, of dark complexion and well built. He has straight black hair and a light mustache.

The following additional details of the occurrence are learned from the brother of the murdered man [illegible] came to New York in response to a letter from Thomas Davis to buy [illegible] money. His visit to the office was for the purpose of obtaining $10,000 in counterfeit money. On his arrival he entered a room occupied by Thomas Davis, whose desk stood close to a partition in an adjoining room, unknown to Holland. Theodore Davis was concealed. Davis produced and showed Holland $10,000 in genuine greenbacks. Holland examined the bills and handed them to Davis, who placed them in a black bag close to the partition. He then endeavored to engage the Texan in conversation and tried to distract his attention. At what he thought was the proper moment he gave a concerted signal and Theodore Davis opened a trap door in the partition and removed the bag, intending to replace it with one similar in appearance but containing only a quantity of paper done up in packages looking like bank notes. At the moment Holland chanced to look up from counting his money and saw the movement. In a moment he was on his feet and had drawn his pistol. "You devil," he cried, "you are trying to rob me. Take that!" and fired. Holland fired a shot through the partition of the room in which Theodore Davis was concealed and then the Texan walked down stairs and into the street, when Theodore Davis followed him, shouting: "He has shot my brother." [illegible] Holland, He tried to rob me and this is the pistol I shot him with." The brother of the murderer and the officer went back to the office at Reade street, where Holland pointed to the bag containing the spurious money, saying: "Officer, I want you to take charge of this bag." Holland was then taken to the station, while Theodore put on his hat and coat and, taking the $10,000 in good money which had been unnoticed in the back room, disappeared. When he went to the station to surrender himself, he no longer had the $10,000. In the crowd he saw a man whom he knew as a friend of Holland and called upon the police to arrest him. The man was arrested and gave the name of John T. Hill.

THE WALKUP POISONING CASE

EMPORIA, Aug. 31.—Following is the certificate of analysis secured by Coroner Frost in regard to the Kansas City medical college analysis of the remains of Mr. J. H. Walkup:

State of Missouri, County of Jackson: Wm. Jones being duly sworn on oath states that he is now and has been for one year past professor of chemistry in the Kansas City medical college and that for three years past he has given a specialty of examining organic substances for detection of poison; that on or about August [illegible] 1885 this affiant received from Chas. D. Harrison, M. D., of Emporia, Kansas, a specimen of human remains represented to be those of one Walkup of Emporia, Kansas, deceased, consisting of the stomach, one kidney, a portion of the intestines, contents of stomach, and a portion of blood; that this affiant has made a careful analysis of the contents of said stomach and a portion of the liver for the detection of arsenic and mercury and has discovered therein arsenic in appreciable quantities but no traces of mercury and that the arsenic was discovered in both portions of the liver and stomach. WM. JONES.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 29th day of August. W. A. Alderson, Notary Public, Jackson county, Missouri.

The coroner's jury met at 8 o'clock this evening and called upon Mrs. Wallace, mother of Mrs. Walkup, to give her testimony.

Late this afternoon a coroner's jury returned a verdict finding that deceased came to his death by arsenical poisoning, and from all the evidence the jury believe that arsenic was administered to him by his wife, Minnie Wallace Walkup. A warrant has been sworn out for Mrs. Walkup's arrest, and she will have a preliminary hearing to-morrow morning.

AN INDECENT ROW

YORK, Pa., Aug. 31.—A decided sensation was created in Winterstown, in this county, yesterday by J. H. [illegible]ilton, a well known resident of the village. Rev. J. J. Shultz of Shrewsbury, pastor of Winterstown Evangelical church, some time ago announced that yesterday he would preach a Grant memorial sermon. Fulton gave notice that such sermon should not be preached in that church, but little attention was paid to his threat and on Sunday Rev. Mr. Schultz announced his text and proceeded with the sermon, enumerating the great men of ancient and modern times. Fulton sat quietly until Gen. Grant's name was mentioned, when he sprang to his feet, brandished his fists and cried to the minister, "Stop that!" The preacher continued his discourse and Fulton advanced up the aisle. Great confusion prevailed which reached a crisis when the angry member sprang into the pulpit and violently assaulted the pastor, knocking him down. A rush was made by the congregation to defend the pastor. Order was finally restored and the sermon finished. Fulton will probably be prosecuted. It is said he has left the place. His action has caused great indignation.

THE GATE MONEY PAID TO SULLIVAN

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31.—George Campbell, lessee of Chester park, who had the gate money in custody, decided this afternoon to make no further trouble for himself by holding the money, but to pay over Sullivan's share and let McCaffery make good his claim to a portion of it in court if he chose to. WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

RHODE ISLAND MANUFACTURERS IN COUNCIL

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 31.—About 100 manufacturers of this state met here to-day to consult on the question of making a joint reply to the late Treasury Sec. Manning asking for information and suggestions in regard to the tariff with a view of laying the matter before congress at its next session. A preamble and resolution was offered setting forth that manufacturing interests of the state were just beginning to show signs of recovery from a long period of depression, but were still in a condition of extreme sensitiveness. The meeting believed that any such attempted general revision of the tariff as that contemplated in Secretary Manning's circular would be exceedingly disastrous to the future industrial interests of the country, and therefore resolved: "That the meeting [illegible] enters its respectful protest against any reopening of tariff agitation at the coming session of congress." Senators Aldrich and Chase spoke in support of the resolutions. The latter wanted it understood he was talking as a manufacturer and not as a senator. Among other things he said were: Why did not the secretary address himself to a repeal of the act of 1854 and why not seek to throw the burden of proof upon the fraudulent importer? He said he is doing something that no other nation in the world has done, offering a premium upon fraud, and that is the reason why so few Americans abroad are importing to this country to-day. The circular of the secretary is not an imputation of accusation but a direct charge. I was surprised that in such a simple matter he found it necessary to go so far off. I don't like myself the idea of an executive branch of government assuming legislative functions." Senator Chase then alluded to the actions of Secretary Bayard with reference to the South American commission and of the postmaster-general in reference to the so-called mail subsidy scheme.

He proceeded to say that the reply from Rhode Island to Washington must be handled with care so that it might not be distorted or used to our detriment. He could not see why the matter of labor for the question should not be answered honestly and intelligently and for the good of the country, but the secretary could not expect every individual manufacturer to open his books to the gaze of the world. The secretary of the treasury might take means to acquaint himself with the cost of labor in this country and in Europe and he would suggest that the report of A. Tames Hewitt as commissioner of the Paris exposition and the consular reports contained information of that character. There were some matters worthy to be thought of in this connection, he said and added: "It is curious that the section, this business which suffers most from tax on raw material, should be the first to revive from depression. I believe that the wool manufacturing business and market is better to-day than any other manufacturing industry in this country. On the other hand the cotton industry, the raw material of which is manufactured here and is largely exported abroad, is most depressed, although the raw material is not taxed at all." The preamble and resolutions were adopted and a committee of fifteen appointed to reply to Secretary Manning's circular.

THE PACIFIC RAILROADS INSPECTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Chief Clerk Pickerill of the railroad bureau has just returned from a tour of inspection of the Central Pacific, Union Pacific, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Sioux City & Pacific and other lines so far as accounts are concerned. Little attention was devoted to the condition of land grant roads, branch lines receiving special consideration. In general condition little change was noted. Union Pacific had seized upon the opportunity afforded by favorable summer weather to make extensive repairs to the road bed and the Central Pacific is in good condition. Business of the road is not equal to that of last year, which was poorer than the preceding year. The reason assigned is keen competition resulting from completion of new lines. The accounts of the Union and Central Pacific companies were examined with a view to determine the amount of earnings due the government for last year under the provisions of the Thurman act. The statement of indebtedness of the Union Pacific has already been published. In the case of the Central Pacific it was ascertained the amount retained by the government for transportation during the year ended the 31st of December, 1884, exceeded by over $800,000 the 25 per cent. of net earnings due the government under the Thurman act.

AN IMPORTANT PENSION DECISION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Second Comptroller Maynard has made a decision in the case of claims of soldiers for arrears for pay and bounty who have been honorably discharged but who are charged upon the military records with desertion. He says that in cases where a soldier has been marked on the roll and reported as a deserter and it appears that within a reasonable time thereafter and while the war was still in progress and the army engaged in active hostilities against the enemy he voluntarily returned to his company and regiment and was unconditionally received into the service or was received on conditions which have been fulfilled, not involving forfeiture of pay and allowances, and subsequently rendered faithful and acceptable military services, and was honorably discharged, it will be held that the presumption that he was a deserter which the entry upon the military record and roll might create will be deemed to be conclusively rebutted and overthrown. In such a case a soldier is to be treated as absent without leave. The practice of the second comptroller's office in adjusting pay and allowances due discharged soldiers will hereafter conform to the above rules.

FENCES ON PUBLIC LANDS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—It is not the intention of the secretary of the interior to issue any general order in regard to the removal of the fences from the public lands, but it has been determined to deal with all cases of violation of the law specially. It is believed better results will be thus obtained than from a general order, which would be looked upon as a proclamation binding upon no one in particular. Special agents of the land office are under instructions to report to the department all cases of illegal fencing and instructions looking to the removal of fences are promptly furnished for his guidance. In each case where the agent is able to effect a removal he is directed to do so, and when necessary United States marshals will be called upon through the attorney general. This action was taken to-day upon the report of an agent showing a large tract of public land had been illegally fenced in southern Colorado adjoining the Kansas line. A letter was sent to the attorney general requesting him to cause the United States marshal to remove fences.

Fatal Railway Accident on the Oregon Pacific—Particulars of the Murder of Mrs Crowser—The C. & O. to be Completed.

EUGENE CITY, Aug. 31.—Word has just reached here that Daniel Church, brother of Hon. John C. Church, of this city, was to-day found dead in Mohawk valley, ten miles from here. It seems that a young man named Varnall was passing Mr. Church's house when he saw a man lying on his face in front of the house. Going near he saw that Church had been shot, and without disturbing the body immediately went for neighbors. Having found one, both repaired to where the body laid. They found that a bullet had entered probably at the back, but they did not turn the body to examine further. A rifle was found about thirty feet from the body. It is impossible to give particulars. Mr. Church was a miner from Yreka, California, and a few months ago married Mrs. Jasper Evans, at whose house the body was found.

LATER.—A son of Mrs. Evans just brings word that his mother was found about one hundred feet from the house in another direction with her face severely hacked and mangled, apparently by an ax. She was not yet dead. Coroner Osborne, Dr. Sharples, Judge Washburn, Sheriff Campbell and others have gone to Mohawk. No theories of the killing are given.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT AT CORVALLIS

CORVALLIS, Aug. 31.—The first accident on the Oregon Pacific occurred at Summit station, twenty-five miles west of Corvallis, at 1 o'clock to-day. While the train was stopped for dinner the engineer left the train in charge. In his absence an engineer named Blackburn, who by permission was on the engine, volunteered to take the train men to dinner at the Railroad boarding house, half a mile away. On his return the engineer appears not to have retained the engine under sufficient control and struck the cars with enough force to drive them several feet back, throwing a little girl [illegible] under the wheels, killing her instantly. Several other passengers were badly shaken [illegible] seriously injured. The child killed was the [illegible] year old daughter of D. [illegible] Eakin, of Eugene City. J. D. Irvine of Independence was struck on the head and rendered insensible for a time. The railroad company procured the best medical attendance available and every attention was shown to the sufferers upon their arrival at Corvallis.

EUGENE CITY, Aug. 31.—A telegram received here this afternoon states that Pearl Eakin, youngest daughter of D. E. Eakin of this city, was run over by cars and killed at Summit on the Oregon Pacific railroad. Mr. Eakin immediately started toward Yaquina bay. It seems that the mother and child were coming home from the bay. The child was about [illegible] years old.

CALIFORNIA.

THE OAKLAND MURDER

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Lillie Crowser, not Cruiser as previously reported, who was shot in Oakland last night by Edward B. Graul, was still living this morning, but her recovery is considered very doubtful. The murderer has been removed to the hospital. The doctors believe he cannot recover. Graul had for sometime been persecuting Mrs. Crowser with his attentions and on several occasions threatened to kill her unless she consented to marry him. This she steadily refused. [illegible] and yesterday afternoon the unfortunate woman visited this city accompanied by Mary Cheever of Oakland, who is a daughter of Judge Temple of San Francisco. When they returned to Oakland Graul followed them and endeavored to obtain entrance to Mrs. Cheever's house, where Mrs. Crowser was staying. Mrs. Cheever saw him through the window and fearing he came for no good purpose ran and bolted the front door. Graul quietly slipped around to the back door and walked in. Mrs. Crowser was in the act of taking off her hat and gloves. Graul spoke to her but what he said is not known, no other person being in the room at the time. A moment later a pistol shot was heard, followed quickly by three more. Mrs. Cheever rushed into the room and found Mrs. Crowser stretched out on the floor and within a few feet of her lay Graul. In his left hand a pistol [illegible] revolver was tightly clutched. [illegible] above his left ear blood and brain matter were oozing. Medical aid was promptly summoned. An examination of Mrs. Crowser's wounds showed that all three of the bullets fired at her by Graul had taken effect. One had entered her head in front of the right ear, a second penetrated her neck and the other her right arm above the elbow. She was unable to speak when picked up, the shock to her system being almost overwhelming. The murderer was removed to the hospital. The wounded woman has a sister and a widowed mother living in this city. She is described as an exceedingly handsome brunette. Her former husband, from whom she was divorced, lives in New York. Graul was a tall, fine looking man, but with heavy coarse features. He was head steward at Page & Tatch's restaurant, corner of Turk and Mason streets, and is said to have borne an excellent reputation.

LATER.—Graul died this morning.

HEAVY LAND SUIT DECIDED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—In the suit of S. B. Burrows against J. Tolph and a large number of property owners in the block bounded by Guerrero, Dolores, Liberty and Twenty first streets to recover property worth $150,000, Judge Maguire today gave judgment for defendants quieting their title to their lands. Plaintiff in his complaint alleged that in April 1862, his father, who was a well known physician, Dr. J. C. Budarous, while on his death bed deeded the land in controversy as a gift to his wife. Plaintiff sought to recover possession of an undivided one half interest in the property on the ground that at the time the doctor executed the deed he was of unsound mind, incapable of making a deed, and that he did not voluntarily sign the deed but was in a helpless condition, and that his wife without informing him of the contents of the deed lifted him up in the bed, placed a pen in his hand and guided it so as to form his signature. Defendants all hold their title under this deed. Judge Maguire in reviewing the testimony holds that Dr. Budarous, although weak physically, was perfectly conscious of what he was doing.

TO COMPLETE THE CALIFORNIA & OREGON

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—It is stated to-night on good authority that orders have been issued by the Central Pacific Railroad company to engineers and bridge builders to proceed with the immediate extension of the California & Oregon railroad to a connection with the Oregon & California railroad. The gap on this side is about 125 miles. Some sections of the road are estimated to cost over $100,000 a mile to construct. It is further stated that the Central Pacific has been induced to complete this [illegible] in order to recover at least the Portland and northwest trade, which California lost through the opening of the Northern Pacific.

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, SEPT 1, 1885

A CALL FROM MICHIGAN TO ALASKA

Mr. A. P Swineford, who was recently appointed governor of Alaska and passed through Portland for that remote territory a few days ago, appears to have gotten out of Michigan just in time to escape a serious charge. On the 27th of August, a damaging accusation was lodged against him at Lansing with reference to his action as United States commissioner for Michigan at the New Orleans exposition. Of the $1,000,000 loaned by the government to the exposition managers $5000 were allotted to Michigan, and a draft for this amount was sent to Swineford by Director General Burke. Since Swineford's departure for Alaska Burke has called for a stated account. Treasurer Kantner of the commission, says that all he ever received from Swineford was $4,000, less $7 50 paid for collection, leaving $3992 50 net and moreover he says that Swineford never paid a single item of the expenses of the commission, but that every dollar was paid by the treasurer, as the itemized account will show. What the people of Michigan want to know is what disposition Swineford made of the $1,000 unaccounted for. He made but one trip to New Orleans and remained there only four days, and the vouchers show that he was allowed $50 out of the fund to cover his expenses.

The Chicago Tribune has a letter from Lansing that purports to furnish an account of the circumstances that took Swineford to Alaska. It is told on the authority of Frank M Carroll, who was Swineford's colleague upon the New Orleans commission. Carroll says that in June, 1884, when he and Swineford were fast friends, both being of the same political belief, the latter told him that he was going to Alaska. Carroll asked him why he was going to bury himself in that remote place, and was told that he (Swineford) was under obligations to the Hon. Peter White of Marquette, who had backed him financially, that White and Samuel J Tilden of New York were largely interested in mining ventures and that Swineford had already entered into a contract with them to go to Alaska in their interest as a mining expert. The contract was to continue for three years, and he was to receive $3000 per year. This, if true, will give him a handsome addition to his salary as governor.

It is singular indeed that the present administration is appointing so many men against whom "charges" of one kind or another are so freely made. In the case of Gov Swineford of course it is but just to wait till he can be heard from, as to the amount of money of which it is alleged he has given no account.

We wait with some interest, however, to learn whether in this case, as in so many others, it will be said that the president's confidence was abused by "deception" and "misrepresentation." Speaking of cases of this kind, the Albany Argus, Secretary Manning's paper, recently said: "Civil service examination is the only cure for this outrageous nuisance and the only protection for the president. Those who are so impatient over the careful, methodical system which governs appointments to office under the present administration should consider the insincerity and thoughtlessness which have been so closely connected with recommendations to office, and have compelled the president and his cabinet to look with extreme suspicion upon signatures and flattering credentials."

The Boston Post the democratic organ of New England, follows this up by saying: "Under this administration there have been appointed one wife beater, one horse thief, one embezzler, and one person said to be notoriously worthless, besides one aider and abettor in a murder. The appointments in all but one of these cases were revoked as soon as the true character of the appointees was known, and in the other case like action will be taken if the charges made against the appointee since his appointment are found to be true. In every one of these cases the appointees had been cordially recommended by lawyers, judges, congressmen, senators and others. Is this merely hard luck, or is it an indication that the morality of the democratic party is much below its pretensions to morality?"

It is probable that Mr Swineford will first hear through THE OREGONIAN of the inquiry in his state about the New Orleans fund. We cheerfully offer him the use of our columns for a reply. What we are curious also to know is whether this case will bring out another letter from the president.

THE SEASON'S IMMIGRATION.

The immigration of the spring and summer has not come up to expectations. It was predicted that we would receive new population during the months of May, June and July at the rate of 1000 per week and during the months of April and August at the rate of 500 per week but the actual incoming has fallen far short of these figures. The ways by which the state is entered are so many that it is not possible to keep an exact register of the immigration movement. More came by the Northern Pacific than any other route the next popular route is the Short Line many come by steamer a few came up the coast to Puget sound and from there here many came in wagons over the old immigrant road others came over land from California and so on. Some who came on immigrant tickets were not new comers but old residents of the country who chose this way of travelling because it was cheap. It is safely estimated that from all sources we have received about 12,000 new people during the past five months and that Oregon and Washington have been about equal sharers in this movement.

The records of the immigration board show that the immigration has been of a good sort. Since the first of April 4,963 new comers, representing more than 8000 persons, have called at the rooms of the board in this city. Of these 4963 callers 80 per cent. were farmers 60 per cent. were married men and 85 per cent. were from the northern states. The ratio of round-trip or prospectors' tickets to locators' tickets issued by the board was one to thirty, showing that most of the new-comers had definite locations in view. The average ready capital of each head of a family was between twelve and fifteen hundred dollars.

It must be admitted that many immigrants after stopping a few days have turned elsewhere, some going back directly to their old homes. The chief cause of this has been the difficulty in finding available free land. It seems that an impression prevails in the east that there are wide acres of open and fertile country waiting the plow to be had for the mere squatting upon it. Immigrants who have high hopes of this kind are naturally disappointed to find the Willamette and other valleys entirely settled and without stopping to look at really inviting prospects not precisely in line with their expectations, pack themselves off. It is a question if we lose anything by the departure of people of this hasty temper. Others have turned away with better cause from the disappointment in not finding employment. Just how many have gone it is not possible to say, but in the neighborhood of 20 per cent of all arriving.

Arrivals have fallen off as they always do in midsummer but the transportation managers are of the opinion that the movement will pick up again after the eastern harvest is over. The board of immigration ought to devise a way to accurately record both the inward and outward movements. The list of callers at the board rooms in this city, is really no record at all.

The Mountain Sentinel thinks it "quite certain" that the correspondence about that appointment is a forgery throughout. It says: "It is part of the business of the associated press to manufacture and give wide circulation to political falsehoods, and it is likely that these letters are a part of the scheme. Were they genuine they would be legitimate property for the public and there would be no reason for suppressing the names of the parties interested nor the place from whence the original letter came." But the letters were not made public through the associated press. They were first published by the New York Times, which had them telegraphed as specials from Washington. The Times, as the leading organ of the administration, is supposed to have special facilities for obtaining news at the White house, and the genuineness of the letters is confirmed by the fact that the Times had them first.

MORTALITY OF THE WAR.

During a long period the war department has been engaged in the preparation of statistics to show the number of deaths that occurred in the Union armies during the war that was precipitated on the country through Jeffersonian principles for the perpetuation of slavery. It was a most arduous work to prepare these statistics but it is believed that a result has been reached which is nearly correct. The report, just made public, shows that the aggregate of deaths among the Union forces was 359,528, of which 9,584 were commissioned officers, and 349,944 were enlisted men. In detail these figures are distributed as follows: Killed, or died of wounds, 110,070, died of disease, 224,586, drowned, 4,944, other accidental deaths, 4,114, murdered, 524, killed after capture, 100, committed suicide, 391, executed, 267, executed by the enemy, 64, died from sunstroke, 313, other known causes, 2,034, causes not stated, 12,121. The New England states lost 40,088 men, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, 85,531 the western states, 142,489, and the southern states, 39,607. Many of these last were colored troops, and the whole loss of colored soldiers was 36,847. The good conduct of officers is shown by the fact that 66 per cent. of the whole number who perished fell in battle, while among enlisted men the mortality in battle was but 30 per cent. The war was more destructive of life than any that has occurred since the fall of Napoleon. It was a terrible price to pay for the suppression of slavery and of the principles of Jeffersonian democracy.

A St. Paul paper learns that there will be no contest at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Northern Pacific on the 17th of September, since all the prominent shareholders have resolved to vote the same ticket. Also the Northern Pacific managers have resolved to submit a new form of Oregon Railway & Navigation lease to other parties interested.

The New York World has an etching of the president on his summer vacation. He is reading a summer book his line is dangling in a mountain stream, and a school of suckers, each fish labeled "Mugwump," is shying and nibbling around his hook. By these devices does the great democratic organ cultivate harmony with the mugwumps.

If anybody thinks there is no enterprise in Oregon he ought to hear how the Oregonians put up money on the hoss trot yesterday. It was the next thing to the eagerness displayed in getting into Transcontinental. There is always money enough in Portland for legitimate undertakings.

Some person recently reviewed and retold through the Chicago Inter Ocean the story of Jo Meek's performances at Washington when he went there as "ambassador" for Oregon during the Polk administration.

The San Francisco Call urges the board of immigration of California to put an exhibit of the products of the state on wheels, as Oregon has done, and send it round.

THE EAST SIDE

SUCCESSFUL TEST

The test made with the fire engine last evening to ascertain if the supply of water to the cistern at Second and J streets would be adequate to the demand in case of fire was entirely satisfactory. Two streams were played for two hours, and the natural flow of water was more than equal to the demand.

TRAMPS AGAIN

Two pair of tramps—one large the other small—were arrested Sunday night in a barn on Mrs Hawthorne's property and lodged in jail for the night. They were arraigned in Justice Simpson's court yesterday morning for trespass. The two younger, aged about 13 or 14, pleaded they had left Tacoma to make their own living, and, becoming "broke," were trying to work their way back. They were discharged on condition they leave the city forthwith, to which they readily consented. The two elder, evidently tramps of some years' experience, pleaded guilty and were committed to appear before the grand jury. The latter pair gave their names as Charles Evans and Jack O'Brien, the former as Thomas Knapp and Albert Elliott.

They brought back specimens of lava, of which there is a large quantity there, and different kinds of rock, etc, as souvenirs of their expeditions.

VANCOUVER ITEMS

VANCOUVER, Aug 29

Gen. Gibbon and Lieut. McClernand, his aide-de-camp, started Thursday on a tour of inspection of military posts east of the mountains. The general intends to carry forward all the improvements projected in and around the garrison.

Since Gen Gibbon arrived there have been band concerts and dress parades on Sunday, to the delight of many Portlanders who have not enjoyed such a treat in the last four years. The family of the general are now settled in their new quarters.

The new city charter provides for dividing our city into seven wards and a movement is now on foot to do that thing. Our people are almost unanimously in favor of the city council attending to that little matter at once, as our city election comes in November and the people are very tired of being represented in the council under the old system and much prefer the ward representation system. Another fine move some of our councilmen are favoring, and that is the removal of our new fire engine to elegant new safe quarters—the Masonic temple.

THE QUAKER MAIDEN.

AFTER WILLIAM D. HOWELLS

(Written for the Oregonian.)

The young man was called Heaven Help-Us Jackson. He had a thoughtful and rather intellectual face. His eyes were of that mixed gray and white that one occasionally sees in the New England skies of a December night, the gray predominating. His hair was worn long and combed back of his ears, but had apparently been clipped by a pair of ragged shears in something of a hurry. There was a slight squint in the left eye, probably a result of nearsightedness. His hands and feet were large, and the latter were surrounded by coarse boots that retained remembrances of the previous year in a moist cornfield. He was tall and angular, and when he spoke he drawled his words and the squint assumed a facial significance not entirely of a prepossessing nature. He generally chewed a straw, selected with much care from the wealth of his father's barn.

He walked deliberately, one hand confined at the wrist by the other about the region of the small of his back where the buttons of our day grow. He passed from the brow of the hill occupied by the Jackson residence to the valley below, inspecting as he went the dandelions that, having cast aside the yellow garb of spring, turned their white and fleecy emptiness to the summer wind and thus carelessly invited their own destruction. Near by the hemlocks whitened to some extent by the dirt of the adjoining highway, sent their pungent incense to his indifferent nostrils and occasionally a crow swept by him, far aloft, the hoarse caw of its mate on a graceless and venerable elm below it appealing for companionship in vain.

Across the shore meadow he went with deliberate step to the modest dwelling place, with low roof and some bee-hives about it, of Tell the Truth Avery. There was honeysuckle about the back door at which he entered and suggestions of morning glory twined their way about it but exhibited their chief exuberance further on. He turned previous to entering and looked at the declining sun, incidentally taking in the finer view of the Quaker maiden, who had ended her milking and stood quietly looking across the bars down the lane and at the woods to which it led.

"It looks like rain," he said, still contemplatively chewing the straw, and in a moment he was seated in one of the high-backed chairs of the period, looking reflectively out of one of its low windows and casually thumbing a work of much interest with his left hand. The work was a bible. He observed a cobweb in the corner of the ceiling. He also noticed that one of the seven by nine panes of glass had been spliced in the middle. Occasionally an industrious bee hovered about him, whereupon he hastily brushed his ear.

The girl entered presently. She was of medium size, with a complexion like milk. Her arms were round and somewhat hard to the touch but she hastily brushed the sleeves, which generally sheltered them, down to the wrists, with a slight blush. She wore her hair with the utmost plainness, a slight black band at the top of her forehead relieving the primness it might have otherwise suggested. There was a patch of yellow, usually called a freckle, somewhat angular and shaped like a heart, on the bridge of her nose. Her smile of welcome very timidly smiled, showed that her teeth were white without being specially prominent. Her ears were small and her lips were inviting. She was Tell-the-Truth Avery.

As she entered, Heaven Help-Us Jackson without changing his position otherwise, casually placed one foot over the other, and remarked with feigned nonchalance that there were indications of a shower.

The girl said she thought not.

Then the hours went slowly on. Neither spoke. Outside the buzzing world of insects kept up its interchange of that otherwise silent communication which no man understands. Once a beetle swept its iron-clad armor against her dainty nose and she jumped. He silently looked out upon the rising moon and chewed his straw. A night bird suddenly gave a lonesome cry and she jumped again. He still chewed on.

Finally he said, "Hast heard, Tell the-Truth, of the charge against Godfearing Jones, who passeth the plate at the sanctuary and Givegood-measure Simpkins, she of the illuminated nose and the excellent snivel, who assumeth to be so virtuous?"

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed jumping again, but no predatory bug had fractured her propriety that time. "What is it?"

"They say he did kiss her."

The darkness kindly hid the blush that mounted to her temples and set its roses into the white skin of her throat, but she presently looked demure and inquired curiously, "What's that?"

"I said he did kiss her."

"Why dost thou talk to me in riddles?" she asked, a tinge of pungency in the music of her voice. "Thou knowest, Heaven Help Us, that I am unacquainted with the ways of the world. What is this—this kissing?"

A half hour went by before he answered, and the buzzing world became oddly still as the moon climbed higher. He threw his straw out of the window and said deliberately, "I will show you." He passed silently to her side, took her white left hand in his own, gently bent back her head till the bunch at the rear touched the higher round of the chair, cleared his throat with a slight effort and kissed her on the mouth.

"Why, now," she said, apparently with pleased surprise, "I don't blame either of them. Why, Heaven Help-Us! That's good. Art not ashamed of thyself that thou didst not teach me this long since?"

She pushed back his hair with her white hands, and inadvertently her warm breath swept the stubble of his cheek. He sat straight and still. She kissed him twice and thrice, and sighed with satisfaction.

Directly he got up and said, "good night," leaving her reflectively looking out at the moon. He paused at the old well at the back door to lift to his lips the ancient bucket that dwelt therein, and as he walked away he thoughtfully cleansed his lips with his coat sleeve. He passed through the primitive gate incidentally drawing a straw from his pocket and placing it to his mouth as he went along. The smell of new mown grass came to his grateful senses and a feeling of profound peace possessed him. His eye deliberately swept the sky and he remarked to himself: "Methinks the shower has gone over into the next bailiwick."

Then he suddenly paused, thrust his hands deep into his pockets and remarked with a scared look, his eyes seeking the ground: "I wonder if she hasn't been giving me points."

AN OLD OREGONIAN'S WANT

He now Lives in Tennessee, and Asks the President to Give him Something that Other Men would Fear

From the Nashville, (Tenn.) American.

Those who are on the inside say there is a deal of human nature in the framing of petitions for office which are made to the powers that be. The style of the paper often indicates the manner of the supplicant. Certainly nothing more charmingly free from coquetry and at the same time touched with a surer flavor of shrewd common sense and manly independence could be found than the appended communication which an honest son of Tennessee sent to the new democratic president. The petition was referred by the appropriate department at Washington to a Tennessee official who received it yesterday. It is as follows:

FANCHER'S MILLS, White County Tenn
April 25 1885

Mr S G Cleveland President of the United States. Dear Sir: I suppose you are bothered with a good many letters such as I am writing but if you will read or cause to be read to you this one I think you will excuse me for writing to you. In a few words is what I want to lay my case before you. In the summer of 1846 I went from Indiana to the Mexican war served a year was in the battle of Buena Vista. I was in the Third regiment of Indiana under Col James H Lane not in the Second that Old Zach said ran. While I was in Mexico I received an injury which cripple me [illegible] but I did not get it under republican rule either through the pension department or congress. I have tried both. I am now destitute of [illegible] and am in my 61st year. I want to make an honest living and not be a burden to my friends or become a common pauper and have to go to the county poor house to live. In 1855 and 1856 I was in the Indian war as captain of a company of volunteers in Oregon and Washington territories. A democratic congress made a liberal appropriation to pay the expenses of that war. My part of it was $1200. When returning home in 1856 I called at the third auditor's office in Washington city to get my pay but pre to change the republicans had cut down the appropriation so that my part of it was only $110. That and some $25 worth of clothes I drew while in service was all I ever got after leaving the gold mines where I could make from $5 to $10 a day to fight to protect the lands, women and children from the Indians. After that war I was twice elected in the county [illegible] as representative in the territorial legislature of Oregon.

Now I would like some little office as storekeeper and ganger of distilleries or anything by which I can make an honest living. I do not drink ardent spirits as a beverage. It is too cold for me in Indiana. I've come to Tennessee for my health. But I am not afraid to die—any post of danger would suit me. Would prefer something that other men would fear. Very respectfully yours

WILLIAM ALLEN

P. S.—Since writing the letter I have thought it best to say I am aware that the president don't appoint the storekeepers and gaugers of distilleries but the collector of the district and the collector appoints the other officers. Besides most of the distilleries will be done running soon until in the fall when new corn comes to maturity and grain will be plentiful and cheaper. I would rather have something to do sooner if possible. If the government has any business to do in a foreign land where there are epidemics or at home or abroad among ferocious tribes where most men would fear to go that post of danger would suit me. I'll not be [illegible] but will do anything that I can do. The government officers of the republican party have cheated me out of my living but I hope for better things under a democratic administration. I always vote the democratic ticket but I have scratched some few democrats when I knew them to be unfit for office and their opponents good men and voted for a few republicans for little offices. But the republicans as a party I think are the worst men living and I say God forbid that they ever should get control of this government again! If we can get a majority in the senate of the same number of democrats that there is of the Pubs then next winter congress will pension what few remaining soldiers there are of the Mexican war for in case of a tie Mr Hendricks will vote right I know him. And you will not veto the bill.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

ONE BEAUTY OF A TELEPHONE.—On Sunday morning Mr. X., who has a telephone in his residence, was suddenly raised from refreshing sleep by an alarm. Stepping to the telephone he was informed that the fire was at Powers' factory, which fact, however, had not the remotest connection with P.'s business. So, taking a look at the lurid heavens, he retired again and was soon again in the land of dreams. Presently the weird alarm of the telephone bell rang through the quiet house and again startled X. from his sound sleep. Putting his ear to the transmitter he listened to a thin voice, saying: "I beg you pardon sir, that other message was intended for another gentleman, good night." Mr. X. is a member of an orthodox church and in good standing and as such dare not seek the ready relief in robust Anglo Saxon so appropriate on such occasions. He must suppress all his indignation and turn it inwardly, which has the effect of keeping his fighting weight down to 225 pounds. It is not known whether he kicked over a chair with his bare feet or bumped his head against the door, but certain it is that his bed chamber was filled with an unearthly, sheolic glare, for some minutes after he again sank into the arms of morpheus.

SHOALWATER BAY OYSTERS.—The statement that the oysters of Shoalwater bay are becoming exhausted is the converse of the truth. For the past three years the number of oyster beds in the bay has been steadily growing, and this season the growth and number is largely in excess over that of last. Several years ago the oysters in the bay suffered from a blight, and for a number of years little, if any trade in oysters from here was carried on, but since 1882, when trade began again, each recurring year has seen an arithmetical progression in the increased shipments, and this year will prove no exception. As to the Yaquina bay oyster having a finer flavor than that of the Shoalwater bay oyster, we have only this to say: Tastes differ. We are glad that our neighbors on Yaquina bay have oysters, and wish them success in both growing and selling them, but to attempt to build up a trade for Yaquina bay oysters by misstating facts about those of Shoalwater bay seems to us to be bad policy. If Yaquina bay oysters are of finer quality than ours they surely will find sale on the market without misrepresenting what are easily proven facts.—Pacific Journal, 28th August.

CHAUTAUQUA CIRCLE.—The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle of the Y. M. C. A. will hold its first meeting to-morrow evening for arrangement of work and making necessary preparations. Members of the class of '88 are cordially invited to attend this meeting, also any lady or gentleman who may desire information about this most popular study. The course of reading this year promises to be of unusual interest and under the able leadership of last year will prove highly instructive. The Y. M. C. A. committee on educational work considers this one of the best means of cultivating literary tastes, and are greatly pleased with the progress made last year. Membership in the circle will, as in all other Y. M. C. A. classes, be open to members. Any lady or gentleman can become a member on the payment of the small fee required. Further information will be cheerfully given at the rooms of the association by the general secretary.

SKETCHING FROM A CANOE.—Mr. J. E. Stuart, the well-known artist, having no more mountains to climb has taken to water. He returned yesterday from a two weeks' cruise of Puget sound. His craft was a genuine Indian canoe, propelled by a pair of genuine Indians. He secured some very fine sketches of the rocks and pinnacles about Cape Flattery and Neah bay, which he regards as the most fantastic scenery he has ever witnessed. The smoke interfered considerably with his work and his pleasure and he was obliged to confine himself to near points. He took much delight in some Indian sketches about Port Townsend. Mr. Stuart speaks in great praise of the work of Mrs. H. [illegible] Beecher, the wife of the new collector of customs at Port Townsend, who has made some rich Indian studies in oil.

NEW INCORPORATIONS.—In the county clerk's office yesterday were filed articles incorporating the Oregon Regalia company, with Ward S. Stevens, W. J. Riley and W. T. Hume as the incorporators. The capital stock is $1000, divided into ten shares. The object of this company is to establish a depot in this city for lodge regalias and other society supplies. Articles were also filed incorporating the Willamette stove works, with a capital stock of $20,000, divided into 100 shares. The incorporators are W. M. Eadie, John A. Honeyman and W. B. Honeyman.

ST. HELEN'S HALL.—This institution begins its seventeenth year to-morrow, with a full corps of teachers and the promise of a large number of pupils. Among the former are Misses Wallace and Eldon, experienced teachers from the East, who have lately come to assist in the English and musical departments. Mrs. Foster retains charge of the art classes. Class singing will be taught to the whole school, free of charge, after this, and so will French pronunciation. Madame Louise Schmidt will be in charge of the latter branch.

OPENING OF THE HIGH SCHOOL.—The board of school directors met yesterday afternoon at the office of C. H. Dodd and went in a body to visit the new high school building. Here they had a conference with Contractor DeBurgh, the result of which was a decision to open the school as was originally intended on September 9. Mr. DeBurgh assured them that all the school rooms would be ready at that time, and that the last of the painting, and some work in the basement, would be finished before the Monday following.

SALOON CLOSED BY ATTACHMENT.—Marx & Jorgensen, wholesale liquor dealers, have begun suit in the state circuit court to collect a debt of $470 75 from Charles Bertram, the keeper of a saloon on Morrison street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, the same being for liquors furnished. Writs of attachment were also got out and yesterday the sheriff closed up Bertram's saloon and placed an attachment upon a lot in block 2[illegible], Couch's addition, belonging to the defendant to secure the amount claimed in the suit.

DISAPPOINTED BY THE SMOKE.—Judge M. B. Koon, of Minneapolis, a jurist of high standing and Mr. E. B. Phelps, secretary of the Minneapolis Loan and Trust company, and president of the Minneapolis board of trade, arrived here yesterday from the Yellowstone park. They were much disappointed over the fact that the smoke hid from them what they had traveled 2[illegible]0 miles to see. Both express themselves delighted with Portland. They leave for home this afternoon.

PETITION DENIED.—The petition filed in the county court, praying for the removal of Gertrude Delin from the position of guardian of the property and rights of Mary Teresa Miller, was denied by Judge Moreland yesterday. The principal points raised in the petition were that the court had no jurisdiction in the matter as the young lady's property is in [illegible] county and that the guardian enticed her charge to live with her. These objections were overruled.

THE O. & C. LAND CASES.—The case of R. Koehler, receiver of the Oregon & California railroad vs. L. T. Barin, register of the land office at Oregon City, and others, was yesterday argued before Judge Deady in the United States circuit court, and submitted for his honor's decision. Messrs. Whalley & Bronaugh represented the interests of the railroad company while Messrs. Watson and Kelly took care of the interests of the government.

INSANE MAN EN ROUTE.—George Lund, a Norwegian laborer, aged about 50 years, was brought down yesterday morning from Boise City, Idaho, by Deputy Sheriff A. Strauss and lodged in the city jail here. Lund was recently adjudged insane and was committed for safe keeping. In the afternoon he was taken to Salem and lodged in the asylum there.

FANNED INTO A BLAZE.—Last night just after dark a brisk breeze from the north fanned some embers of the Sunday morning fire into a blaze, and carried sparks into dangerous proximity to Pennoyer's mill yard. A telephone message asking for a hose company was sent in and responded to. An hour's work drenched everything beyond fear of further danger.

DRAMATIC READINGS.—At Vancouver this evening Miss Tarr, daughter of Rev. Levi Tarr, presiding elder of the Lewiston M. E. church circuit, will give dramatic readings for the benefit of the M. E. church at Marsh hall. Miss Tarr comes well recommended by those professors of elocution who are best able to judge of her merits.

SOLD AT SHERIFF'S SALE.—Upon an order of sale issued by the circuit court in the suit of Noah Lambert vs. F. Nelbur, the sheriff yesterday sold to the highest bidder sixty feet of lot 5, block 183, corner of Madison and Seventh streets. The purchaser was J. D. Kennedy and the price paid was $117[illegible].

BURGLARY.—Saturday night the office of the Oregon Standard Soap works of R. Irving & Co., at No. 262 F street, was broken into by burglars. They effected an entrance to the building, drilled a hole in the safe, picked in a quantity of powder and blew the door open. The safe was an old-fashioned affair, and offered only a feeble resistance to the cracksmen. However, the burglars obtained only a small recompense for their labor and the risk incurred, for only $38 were found in the safe drawers. No one living in the vicinity was awakened by the burglars' operations.

IMMENSE CATTLE SHIPMENTS.—Yesterday the Oregon Short Line began the shipment of 27,000 head of cattle from Ontario, Baker county, on Snake river. It will take 1400 cars and between fifty and sixty days to complete the shipment. Nearly all the cattle go to Chicago.

CHINAMAN MURDERED.

The Masonic Joss House the Scene of a Midnight Homicide—A Penitentiary Convict the Murderer—Revenge the Motive.

A few minutes after 12 o'clock last night there was a terrific blowing of whistles on Second street, between Washington and Alder and the accompanying cries of a mob of Chinamen, that seemed to spring up from the very ground and fill the street, brought hastily to the scene from every direction Policemen Watson, Mott, Barton, Harkelroad and Young. Some Chinamen who were guarding the door of the stairway leading to the Masonic joss house informed the police that a murder had been committed. All the Chinamen inside were then passed out one at a time until at last the murderer was pointed out and taken into custody by the officers.

Then going up stairs they found lying on the floor in the center of the room a Chinaman just gasping his last breath. The prisoner was white as a sheet and trembled visibly. Afterwards, when being searched at the jail, he declared he did not do it, and said: "He say I kill him, I no can help they hang me, I no do it."

The coroner was notified and took charge of the body. He found a knife wound in the abdomen, about three inches above and to the right of the navel. There had been very little blood upon the floor, but the dead man's garments were soaked and much of the bleeding had been internal. The murdered man could not have lived over five minutes after he was stabbed.

The name of the murderer is Mah Yim, and that of his victim Ng Su Choy. The story of the killing as told by an eye-witness, is as follows: There was a meeting of the society of Chinese Free Masons, and Su Choy was present. He was in an inner room and came out into the main hall just as the outside door opened, and Mah Yim entered. The latter took a few steps forward and met Su Choy. Before the latter had recognized the new-comer, Yim had drawn a long knife and plunged it into the other so quickly that he had no time to raise a hand to save himself.

For a wonder, in this case of murder, there are no conflicting stories as to the cause of the killing. All agree upon one plain statement, which it is believed is the true one. A little over a year ago Mah Yim was sent to the penitentiary for stealing a watch from the man he murdered. His friends say that he did not steal the watch, and that the charge was simply a job put up to get rid of him. Be that as it may, he was convicted on the charge and sent to Salem. For this he meditated revenge, and the first chance he got after regaining his freedom, he killed the man who had been instrumental in putting him in the penitentiary.

OUR RIVERS AND HARBORS.

More Details Relating to Improvements in Several Places

[Correspondence of the Oregonian.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.

The following reports on river and harbor improvements in Oregon have been prepared for transmission to congress:

ENTRANCE TO COOS BAY.

The project for the application of the appropriation of July 5, 1884, was for continuing the low enrockment. The enrockment was ... seventy two feet, making the total jetty length measured on its top surface [illegible] feet. The effect of the jetty on the channel during the year beyond a fair stability of position has not been marked. The examination shows an increase of bar channel depth of about one foot and a small continued favorable erosion of the north spit. Last year's ... [illegible] of the shoal above Fearless rock has continued. Jetty construction across the deep interior channel is expensive and a considerable advance of the work made gradually is required for ... improvement. The amount estimated as required for next year is $[illegible]0,000.

YAQUINA BAY.

In resuming operations under the new appropriation the approved plan was to ... the ... gap by jetty construction, build a spur northward for the protection of the bank and heavily strengthen the jetty with larger rock. The jetty now brought to an average height of high tide measures 51 feet. The spur jetty for shore protection is 4[illegible]0 feet long. The work is ... in ... excellent condition and will probably be ready for ... speedy extension of the jetty when funds permit. It is desirable to complete the work in two years. [illegible] ... channel is a little more southerly ... the north ... [illegible] ... The changes in the ... [illegible] ... for the ... [illegible] ... $[illegible]000 ...

COQUILLE RIVER.

A low ... jetty of a total length of [illegible] feet ... the radical change ... entrance designed by the project. The improved channel was straight direct and free from rocks. The situation a year later was that nearly all of the temporary jetty work had been displaced by sea and drifts, and the adjacent fill had disappeared. During the past year 442 feet of jetty structure were built and the total jetty length is [illegible] feet. The work of improvement needs to be solidified and extended. For the next year $75,000 is required.

UPPER COLUMBIA AND SNAKE RIVERS.

The work on this river is very difficult owing to the extremely swift water and can only be prosecuted at passable stages near low water. It is proposed to apply the appropriation asked for to the removal of rocks and cobble-stone bars to the completion of the project which is intended to secure a low water channel of five and a half feet in the Columbia as far as Ainsworth, and four and a half feet in the Snake as far as Lewiston, Idaho.

For the Columbia river above the mouth of the Snake no estimate is presented pending the results of the survey of Priest's rapids. It will take $50,000 to complete the project.

COWLITZ RIVER.

The amount expended on this river has been $5,[illegible]. Work has been satisfactorily done, resulting in a good improvement to navigation. It has made a commercial development very large in proportion to the sum expended, and I am of the opinion that operations should be extended to Kleotat bridge about twenty miles farther up the river and also to include shore protection wherever it may become necessary to prevent the river from making its channel two wide. The estimate of $6000 submitted has this extension in view.

SURVEY OF COLUMBIA AND SNAKE RIVERS.

The time has arrived when further progress in the improvements of the upper Columbia and Snake rivers must be preceded by a careful survey. The Columbia river has now been surveyed starting from the sea as the mouth of the Willamette at the Cascades, and at The Dalles and the survey of Priest's rapids. It is perfectly obvious that any further projects can only be intelligently guided by a good survey. I cannot too strongly urge the necessity for this survey. These are rivers of commanding importance and it is quite time that they should be studied by the light of careful surveys, such as are now in progress on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The distances to be surveyed are about 630 miles on the Columbia and 137 miles on the Snake as far as Lewiston, making a total of 767 miles. At $150 per mile the cost would be in round numbers $115,000.

This can be advantageously expended in two annual installments of $90,000 and one of $25,000.

THE GREAT TROT.

Jane L. Distances Syphon in the Fourth Heat.

A VERY EXCITING CONTEST.

Jane L. Wins the First and Fourth Heats and Syphon the Second and Third, Only to Weaken and Lose the Race.

Jane L. won the great trot at City View park yesterday afternoon, and the Hambletonian Mambrino men are in high feather, but the merits of the two trotting strains are as much a subject of discussion as ever, and it is doubtful if a single Altamont man among the many that witnessed the race yesterday was converted to the rival stables. "Wait till our horse has had more training," they assert, "and we will show you which is the better trotter of the two."

At 1 o'clock the steamer Multnomah left the foot of Alder street for the track at City View park with a crowd of about 800 people. At 2 o'clock she made another trip, carrying about 400. Carriages brought in 300 more, swelling the attendance to 1500.

Instinctively the crowd settled around the pool box and betting began. The Jane L. men took the east end of the stand, while Syphon's admirers gathered under the apple trees at the opposite end. For half an hour a golden stream flowed steadily into the box. Jane L., as on Saturday night, was hot favorite, bringing $10 and $20, but there was no lack of men willing and anxious to take Syphon at $6 and $12.

The track was in excellent condition. The judges were J. T. Apperson of Oregon City, T. H. Tongue of Hillsboro and E. J. Jeffery of Portland, while Messrs. W. S. Scoggin, L. P. W. Quimby and R. Bybee served as timers.

About 2:30 Syphon came on the track, driven by Sutherland of Yreka. The gelding's appearance was decidedly against him. He was poor in flesh and his movement appeared stiff and unnatural. After a warming up jog, however, he appeared to better advantage, and when Lindsey came on the track a few minutes later with Jane L. many were of the opinion that if Syphon was lacking in flesh the black mare ran to the other extreme. To the eye of the average admirer of horse-flesh, however, no prettier picture could have been presented than that made by the Hambletonian Mambrino representative, and every movement of the handsome black was eagerly noted and commented upon.

At 2:45 the drivers were ordered up to weigh, and at the request of the judges Lindsey changed his color to white, as the smoky atmosphere rendered it almost impossible to distinguish between the horses at a distance.

FIRST HEAT.

Syphon won the pole, and at 3:10 the horses went up the stretch to score. The crowd by this time were on the qui vive. Hitherto there had been a complete absence of anything that could be construed as a "pointer" and many were depending upon the first heat for something that would serve as a guide upon which to base their bets. When the trotters came up to the wire the first time the gelding was trailing a couple of lengths in the rear, and they were called back. At the second effort, however, Syphon was close up to the mare, and the crowd, realizing that they would get away, drew a deep breath and waited for the expectant tap from the judges' stand. When it came a shout went up and instantly everybody was on his feet. It was a trot for a fortune, and most of the anxious ones were directly interested in the result. Away they went, neck and neck to the turn. Here Syphon went ahead half a length, and the Altamont men drew a deep breath. Thus they trotted past the quarter, when the gelding threw up his head. He had lost his feet. The Altamont men sighed and the Hambletonian backers cheered their little black, who was rapidly putting daylight between herself and the gelding. Jane L. was ahead about five lengths when she passed the half, which she maintained till they reached the last quarter. Here the horse did better work, but coming down the home stretch, he broke again, running all over the track. Jane L. came in easy winner by about four lengths, amid the waving of handkerchiefs and the cheers of her admirers. Time, 2:32½.

SECOND HEAT.

The Altamont men now looked despondent. "Our horse will probably be shut out in the next heat," many said quietly. "If he had the training he would out-trot Jane L., but we expected too much from him." It was generally expected that the pool box would suffer from the result of the first heat, but this expectation proved erroneous. The backers of Jane L. had unbounded faith in her and were willing to give almost any odds. There were plenty of men ready to place a few dollars against many, and consequently betting was twice as animated as before the heat. Pools sold as follows: $30 to $9, $40 to $12 50, $35 to $25, and $100 to $2[illegible]. Thousands of dollars went into the box in less than half an hour.

After a wait of twenty five minutes the trotters were called to the track, appearing none the worse for the initial heat. As before, they were tapped off on the second attempt, with Syphon again slightly behind the mare. At the turn they were moving beautifully, the horse taking the lead slightly. An instant later Jane L. made a skip, and Syphon followed suit. He recovered almost instantly, but the mare went entirely off her feet, and Lindsey had to bring her almost to a walk. This was a complete surprise to the Hambletonian Mambrino men, who were putting their faith on the black's steadiness and "honesty." Meanwhile the Yreka horse was putting in some steady licks, and the countenances of the Altamont partisans shortened materially. When Syphon passed the half-mile post Jane L. was nearly a distance behind. "He will shut her out!" some one shouted, and the hearts of the mare's backers stopped beating as they realized their great danger. But the excitable individual was mistaken. Sutherland had no idea of hazarding his horse's staying qualities on so desperate a chance. He was willing to let good enough alone—win the heat and give Syphon a rest. Although the mare steadily closed the gap the odds were too great, and Syphon maintained the lead to the finish, winning the heat by two and a half lengths. Time, 2:34.

THIRD HEAT.

The result of the second heat set the shrewdest betters to scratching their head, and a number who had risked $40 or $[illegible]00 against $100 wished that their enthusiasm had not been so great. The mare's ... break on the first quarter was something entirely unexpected. She might repeat the performance, and the horse might scratch in on the next two heats, or worse still might shut their favorite out in the next heat. This fear was so strong that conservatism ruled around the pool box, and betting was somewhat tame compared with previous bidding. Pools sold as follows: $20 to $7 50, $20 to $8, and $20 to $9.

After the usual breathing spell the horses were again called to the track and a minute later went up the stretch to score. This time they were sent away on the first trial, Syphon being again a short distance behind. They trotted like a team to the turn, when Syphon repeated his favorite move of pushing to the front and cutting out the pace. In this position they trotted to the half post, when the hopes of the Altamonts fell, for their favorite went off his feet, and when the five-eighths pole was reached Jane L.'s nose showed to the front. The mare increased the gap until the last quarter was passed, when Syphon got down to his work and began to close up the long stretch of daylight. When they came into the home stretch and the crowd saw that the horse was making a grand effort for first place a cheer went up from the Altamont men. On they came, Syphon's speed simply terrific. It almost appeared as though Jane L. had stopped, so swiftly was Syphon forging to the front. When the distance flag was reached Jane L. was less than a length ahead, and Syphon's remarkable gait gave no sign of diminishing. Never before was such a driving finish seen on an Oregon track. The excitement was painful and the crowd swayed by the passions of pride and gain seemed driven madly by the sight of the straining horses. "Can he do it?" some one shouted, and a hundred voices answered "He can! He will!" Nearer they came, and at each stride Syphon forged ahead until his shoulder ... the ... of the mare. "Syphon wins!" ... was shouted the frantic crowd in the grand stand. Then the horse gave a ... stride and passed under the wire a neck in advance of the mare, while the crowd made a break for the track and howled itself hoarse with joy. Syphon broke just before passing under the wire, and it was a question whether he would be awarded the heat. Of course the crowd was divided on this question, and for a few minutes the excitement continued. The judges unanimously decided that as the horse was ahead when he broke, and as he started a few feet behind, he was entitled to the heat. There were no appeals from the decision. Time, 2:32½. It was the opinion of experienced turfmen that Syphon, from entering the home stretch till he reached the wire trotted at least a 2:23 gait.

FOURTH HEAT.

A look of painful uncertainty now crept into the faces of the Hambletonian Mambrino men. On the other hand the Altamont star was in the ascendant and the friends and backers of Syphon were elated. Whatever might be the outcome of the race it was plain that their horse could trot.

The crowd rushed to the pool stand, and soon the jingle of coin was heard in a hundred hands. Jane L. was no longer the favorite, pools selling as follows: Syphon $65, Jane L. $55, $55 to $32 50, $30 to $20, and $10 to $[illegible]. Betting was lively, many pool-buyers concluding to hedge.

When the horses were called out for the fourth heat many admiring glances were awarded the Altamont gelding. Some of the old horsemen, though, shook their heads dubiously, and one gentleman who attended his first horse race fifty years ago ventured the assertion: "I wouldn't be surprised to see Syphon fall in this heat and hurt his driver. The strain is too great for a horse so fresh from pasture."

The trotters were tapped off at the second trial, and as usual Syphon went to the front at the turn. Both animals at this point were moving beautifully, and appearances indicated another driving finish. Unfortunately for the Altamont people, however, their horse lost his feet and became unmanageable. The mare never skipped, and soon had left Syphon away to the rear. Further and further she went to the front, until the half mile post was reached. Then Lindsey looked back, and resolved to push Jane L. through and try to distance Syphon. A great cheer went up from the Hambletonian Mambrino crowd, while the countenances of the Altamont men fell lower than ever. Lindsey was already a distance ahead of Syphon, who gave no signs of getting down to work in time to save the race, and the great question now became, "Will the horse be shut out?" By the time Syphon entered the stretch Jane L. was half way home, and both trotters were coming at a rattling gait. Here the horse made a great effort to save a distance, but it was useless, for the mare had passed well under the wire when the white flag dropped in Syphon's face and gave the heat and race to Jane L. This time the Hambletonians cheered themselves hoarse with joy, and in their cheers there was no tone of doubt.

NOTES.

Neither Jane L. nor Syphon is entered for the state fair races.

Jay Beach is confident that Syphon can beat Jane L., and is anxious to have another race.

Jane L. is 6 years old, and Syphon is only 5. The former has a 3-year-old record of 2:55¾, and the latter of 2:52.

It is estimated that between $30,000 and $40,000 was bet on the race. More than $11,000 went into the pool-box.

Owing to the lateness of the hour the race announced to occur between Mount Vernon, Katie Lynch and Florence E. was declared off.

Altamont is 10 years old, and is now at J. L. Hallett's farm in Washington county. He was sired by Almont, dam Lyd by Brown Chief, son of Mambrino Chief. Altamont has a wagon record of 2:26¾.

Hambletonian Mambrino is now 11 years old, and is owned by Van B. DeLashmutt and I. B. Linley. He was brought to the coast as a colt by Laird & Reed. He was sired by Menelaus, dam Olean by Border Chief, son of Mambrino Chief.

Lucy Thomas, Syphon's dam, was bought by Mr. Beach for $90, and died after foaling two colts, Syphon and a full sister. Both were sold to Dr. Robinson of Yreka for $200 each. Mr. Beach recently bought Syphon from Dr. Robinson for $2000.

No accident or disturbance occurred to mar the day's sport. The crowd was exceptionally orderly, and among it was a liberal sprinkling of ladies. No event in years, probably, has drawn together so large a number of prominent horsemen.

THE STAGE.

"PAINTIN' THE TOWN RED."—A full house greeted the production of the musical farce "Paintin' the Town Red," at the New Market last night. It went fairly well, but ought to have gone better. There is plenty of rational fun in it, but every one of the experienced company from Alma Stuart Stanley down was excessively nervous, simply because it was the first performance before a metropolitan audience. Yet nearly everything was encored. A little pruning of dialogue, more rush and snap, and more familiarity with the play—all of which is certain to come—will make a first-rate entertainment. By to-morrow night the performance ought to sparkle from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

A POSSIBLE REASON WHY.

PORTLAND, Aug. 31, 1885.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

An item appeared in THE DAILY OREGONIAN this morning concerning the remark imputed to Gen. Grant relative to Gen. Fremont's candidacy for the presidency in 1856. I was living in St. Louis in 1856 when Gen. Grant did and voted in that election. Although a republican I voted for Buchanan because it was impossible to get any Fremont tickets, the southern element being too strong to allow their circulation. Perhaps Gen. Grant's vote for Buchanan was cast for the same reason.

SHOT BY HIS OWN HAND.

John Howard, a Son of Gen. Howard Wounds himself Fatally.

The Deed Done in the Yellowstone National Park—Disappointment in Love the Reported Cause of the Rash Act.

Tourists who arrived yesterday from the Yellowstone National Park bring news of a tragedy which will be a shock to the friends of Gen. O. O. Howard and his family. On Wednesday or Thursday of last week, John Howard, a 19 year old son of the gallant soldier, shot himself with suicidal intent, and it is likely that death has ensued before this time. The shot was fired on the right side, below the ribs and went through the liver. It happened that an experienced surgeon was at hand, and the young man had the best medical treatment obtainable. The sad affair occurred at Fire Hole basin in the Yellowstone national park, about sixty miles from Cinnabar, the terminal station of the Northern Pacific park branch. He, with his father, his brother James, and a party of ladies who were doing the park had camped there. Early in the morning of the day the deed was done, young Howard expressed the intention of taking his life, and seized a revolver for this purpose, but was disarmed and apparently quieted. Later in the day he made a second attempt to take his life by throwing himself over a cliff into a whirlpool below the falls, but was held back by his friends. Upon the return of the party to the camp, Howard in some manner unknown to the other members of the party secured a revolver, and walking behind a tent shot himself. There are two stories of the motive for the suicide. One is that he was betrothed to a young lady in his father's party, that they had a lovers' quarrel and the engagement was broken off. Another is that while en route to the park from the East, he met a young lady with another party, also en route to the park, and formed a strong attachment for her. She did not reciprocate his affection, and so expressed herself.

Among the arrivals from Yellowstone park yesterday were Senator Charles F. Manderson and wife, of Nebraska. Learning that they had been at Gen. Howard's camp after the terrible affair occurred, an OREGONIAN reporter called on Senator Manderson at the Esmond last night, and repeating in substance what was given above, asked concerning the truth of the reports. The senator replied that it was true young Howard had shot himself, but he neither confirmed nor denied the report that the deed was prompted by an affair of the heart. He said: "It will be perfectly true to say that the act was committed during temporary aberration." The senator had just received a message from the operator at Cinnabar, advising him that at last accounts the young man was still alive, but that death from blood poisoning was only a matter of time. It is a long day's ride from Cinnabar, the nearest telegraph station to Gen. Howard's camp, at Fire Hole basin.

Gen. Howard's wife was visiting her daughter at Vancouver and was telegraphed for. She started Sunday afternoon accompanied by Capt. [illegible]ray.

SHIPPING NOTES

The Oregon sailed hence yesterday, but was compelled to stop over night on the way down river, the Walla Walla's work claiming the channel. The Willamette left at daylight with a large freight.

The work of shifting the bars is progressing much more rapidly than expected, doubtless because of the soft nature of recent deposits. The Walla Walla is expected to finish the work to-morrow. Very satisfactory reports are received from the work.

The two survivors of the Haddingtonshire have been given employment with [illegible] the boy going on the Santa Rosa.

The remark having been made in connection with the account of the wreck of Haddingtonshire that the gale which she encountered [illegible] equator was unusual in that locality, as proof to the contrary, about four years ago in the fall of the year the British ships Kingsport and Cornwallis and American ship Hecla left San Francisco with wheat and in very near the position mentioned sustained such damage in a heavy gale that the first two were compelled to return seriously damaged, the Cornwallis with seven feet of water in her hold. The Hecla arrived home but was damaged, and the ship Hazarstown reached San Francisco from the east damaged in the same gale. The British bark Devona Water was in company with the ship just prior to the gale and has never been heard from since—lost with all hands. Several affairs of a similar nature before and since show that the locality is very dangerous to shipping and that gales are heavy there.

SENATOR SHERMAN'S SPEECH

Senator John Sherman's speech at Mt Gilead, Ohio, on the 26th of August was the first important political utterance since the close of the presidential contest of last year. We had a meagre outline of the speech by telegraph but a fuller presentation of it is called for. Liberal extracts setting forth the spirit of the whole are therefore appended.

Fellow Citizens: It is a long time since I had the pleasure of addressing the republicans of Morrow county, but I have not forgotten nor will I ever forget the great obligation I am under for their friendship and partiality when more than thirty years ago I first appeared before them as a candidate for congress. Those were important and stirring times. The republican party was then formed as an active and effective organization to resist the extension of slavery. Many of the actors in those scenes have passed away, and now a new generation, the sons and even the grandsons of the old republicans of Morrow county are charged with the duty of completing and advancing the work of the republican party. You need not be ashamed of the record of that party. Our adversaries now concede the wisdom and success of all prominent republican measures as well as the merits of the great leaders of the republican party. Only a few days since I hear my colleague Senator Payne in addressing soldiers at Fremont extol Lincoln and Grant in the highest terms of praise, and say the war was worth all it cost, and he thanked God that slavery had been abolished. Only recently, when the great procession conveyed the mortal remains of Grant to their resting place, the ardent active confederates extol him in the highest terms of praise, and some of them frankly gloried in the success of republican measures and especially in the abolition of slavery.

It may be unkind but it is natural for us to recall what these same men said of Lincoln and Grant and the war, and the abolition of slavery within thirty years past. The republican party was a black abolition party. Lincoln was an ape. Grant was a butcher, and Union soldiers were Lincoln hirelings. The war was the sum of all crimes. Yet these same men now seek to hide their opposition to the war and their abuse of Lincoln and Grant by fulsome eulogy and praise.

A PROUD RECORD

Surely a party that within six years from its organization overthrew the powerful dominant democratic party and for twenty-four years afterwards conducted the operations of a great government in peace and in war without [illegible] [illegible] to win the support and acquiescence, even of its enemies, can fairly claim to be worthy of the confidence and support of the great body of the people.

EXAMINING THE BOOKS

They have examined the books and the vaults, and they find every dollar of public money on hand or accounted for. It was feared for awhile that there was a deficiency of two cents, but these were found to have dropped upon the floor by the counters so that the money is all on hand. The Augean stable is now found by our adversaries to be the most perfect piece of administrative machinery in the world, for I venture to say that in no government in our own or any country or in any time are the receipts and disbursements of the government so faithfully and honestly accounted for as in the treasury of the United States. The "Augean stable" was cleanly swept and kept by the republican party and now, after a full examination by Manning and Jordan and other New York democrats, they do not find a speck or blemish or a fault in the magnificent machinery placed in their hands by the folly of the American people. They found it the best conducted business workshop in the world. The civil service law, a measure adopted by the republicans, aided by a very few democrats, was gradually put in force by the republican party, and now is the only restraint against the wholesale removal of worthy officers by a democratic administration. They commenced the cry of "Turn the rascals out." They found none, but they did find offensive partisans and turned them out and put rascals in.

I acknowledge the good intentions of Mr. Cleveland, but he knows as well as I do that the hungry and thirsty crowd who are howling for the removal of every republican officeholder must in a short time prevail, and all pretense of the observance of the law will be abandoned. Every republican now in office is an "offensive partisan," and the most noisy and blatant of partisan democrats will be the chosen candidates for all offices, from the smallest postmaster of the Nasby school to the rebel generals who represent us in foreign lands.

THE BLOODY SHIRT

When we point out offenses committed in the South it is said that we are raising the bloody shirt; that we are reviving the issues of the war—that the war is over. I hope the war is over, and that the animosities of the war will pass away and be dead and buried. Anger and hate and prejudice are not wise counsellors in peace or in war. Generosity, forgiveness and charity are great qualities of the human heart, but like everything else that is good they may be carried to excess and may degenerate into faults. They must not lead us to forget the obligations of duty and honor. While we waive the animosities of the war we must never fail to hold on, with courage and fortitude, to all the results of the war. We forget sometimes that it was the Union cause that won and not the rebel cause. I have recently heard Jefferson Davis in the senate of the United States extolled as a patriot, and I have been called in question for denouncing him as a conspirator and a traitor. I have seen many signs of a disposition to waive all the glorious results of the war, to make no difference between the blue and the gray, to revive again the doctrines of secession and state rights taught before the war. The tendency of the democratic party is all that way.

Fellow citizens, the line drawn between the two parties is now as distinct as it was during the war, but we occupy a different field of battle. Then we fought for the preservation of the Union, and as a means to that end, for the abolition of slavery. Now the Union is saved and slavery is abolished, we fight for the equal political rights of all men and the faithful observance of the constitutional amendments. We are for the exercise of national authority for the preservation of rights conferred by the constitution, and upon this we ask [illegible] the cooperation from the South as well as the North.

AN HONORABLE APPEAL

Upon this issue we intend to make our appeal to the honest and honorable people of the southern states. We think they are bound in honor to faithfully observe the conditions of peace granted to them by Gen Grant and prescribed by the constitutional amendments. If they do this we will have peace, union and fraternity. Without it we have agitation, contests and complaints. Upon this issue I will go before the people of the South, and turning my back upon all the animosities of the war, appeal only to their sense of honor and justice. If they continue under their democratic rulers the present system of ostracism and oppression and injustice a party can be formed among them who will demand justice to all and thus break down the solid South, based as it is upon crime and fraud. If not, it is the duty of the people of the northern states, without distinction of party, to unite the North in the execution of the constitutional amendments, and under the fourteenth amendment to deny the states that do not protect their citizens in the elective franchise representation based upon the numbers disfranchised.

PROTECTION VS FREE TRADE

We also believe that it is the right and duty of the government by its commercial laws and regulations to foster and protect American industry, to diversify the employments of its people and build up its manufactories, to aid its ships and shipping, and generally by its commercial and tax laws to develop new forms of industry and give new employments to labor. This line of demarkation between the two parties is constantly shown in the action of their members in congress. This republican policy has led to the great development of our mining, manufactures and agriculture. It is now in great danger of overthrow by the ascendency of free trade ideas in the democratic party, which now threaten the disturbance of our industries. You may rely upon it that the republican party is the progressive affirmative party of the country, proposing and accomplishing measures, while the democratic party is the negative resisting party in the country, generally in the opposition and proposing nothing.

JUGGLING WITH FIGURES

No act of the administration has tended in the slightest degree to revive the business of the country. It was the hope that a change would make times easier that led many persons to vote the democratic ticket. What has been the result? "What suggestion even has been made by any member of the administration that will brighten in the least the industry of the country?" None whatever. The secretary of the treasury changed the form of the monthly debt statement and made obscure what was formerly clear. He excluded from the moneys in hand the entire body of the fractional silver coin, thus tending to lessen the fixed balance in the treasury below its real amount and at the same time creating a depreciation of this silver currency. One good effect of this pretended reform is to show how foolish Mr. Hendricks was in the last campaign in stating that there was $400 000 000 belonging to the United States lying idle in the treasury, kept there by the republican party.

Where is this surplus? How many barrels of flour will it buy for each citizen of the United States? How shallow were the hypocrisy and demagogism by which the party came into power.

The arrangement by the secretary with the national banks in New York to get, as a matter of favor, some gold in exchange for silver coin seems to me a violation of the sub-treasury act, which clearly forbids the exchange of money. It only tended to emphasize the depreciation of silver and to lower it more and more in public confidence. The expedient of his predecessors of issuing silver certificates in exchange for gold coin was a much more effective way to strengthen the gold balances. It is sufficient to say that no act of the administration affecting the currency or finances has tended to restore confidence, to encourage industry or to furnish employment. The business of all the departments seems to be confined to turning out experienced employes against whom no fault [illegible] and except their fealty to the republican party, and to putting in democrats, many of the [illegible].

It is but fair that in my criticisms of this administration I should say of the president that he [illegible] he has endeavored to check, as far as he could, the disregard of the civil service law and the tenure of office act, but in spite of it, removals for purely partisan reasons are now being made by the heads of departments, mainly by the postmaster general, at the rate of 100 a day. Hundreds of Union soldiers have been discharged without the slightest complaint, except to give place to democratic partisans.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION

On the subject of temperance legislation our democratic friends have practiced more than their usual demagogism and deception. They promised to repeal the Scott law; their legislature dared not do it, but after nine months' delay they nullified it by a partisan judicial decision. They promised the liquor dealers to refund the tax collected, but got out of this by another partisan decision. Under their rule the sale of whisky and beer is as free as of bread. No taxes are levied upon them, no restraints, no limitation. By their acts the Scott law is a dead letter, and according to their partisan judicial decision, there is no power in the legislature either to prohibit or tax the sale of liquors.

Gov. Hoadly courteously and frankly owns that he is opposed to prohibition in all its forms, and to taxation, and the recent democratic convention proposes no remedy except to change the constitution so as to allow the license of the traffic, a measure that has been twice rejected by the people of Ohio, and which no man of sense believes will ever be adopted. This issue is squarely made between free whisky and the taxation and regulation of the traffic.

THE SENSIBLE PLAN

Fortunately by the election of republican judges and a republican legislature you can now secure wise temperance laws in harmony with the spirit of the age. Such laws can and ought to be passed that will restrain and limit and tax the traffic. I appeal to our republican friends who have been faithful and true in the past to the great party to which they belong not to desert it now or to wander off on a collateral question. Work as you will for such temperance measures as you desire, however moderate or extreme they may be, but let not this make you forget your interest in the restoration and perpetuity of the republican party. The signs of the times indicate strongly that the political prohibition movement in Ohio is now managed by a few leaders solely in the interest of the democratic party and with a view to defeat the republican party. I have no unkind words for them, but I hope they will find that the republican voters are intelligent enough to know that the place of an honest temperance man is not as an ally or stipendiary of the democratic party.

What we want is a republican governor, and his name is Foraker. A republican legislature that will give you wise temperance laws as well as wise laws upon other subjects. Republican judges that will construe the constitution of the state on the side of temperance and good order, and a republican senator from Ohio to the senate of the United States. Let us place Ohio where she has usually stood, in the forefront of republican states, for the Union, for liberty and justice to all, without respect of race, nativity or creed.

The Ohio Campaign and Senator Sherman.

New York Evening Post (Mug.)

The most important concern that the people of Ohio and those of the United States have in the campaign relates to the senatorship falling vacant on the 4th of March next. It is quite certain that if the republicans carry the legislature Senator Sherman will be re-elected. If the democrats gain a majority some pliant tool of the Enquirer faction will succeed him. Mr Sherman has been in public life as congressman, senator or cabinet minister more than thirty years, and has rendered very great services to the country. He is one of the foremost of American statesmen, possessing a store of experience beyond any other man now in public life and with all his faculties unimpaired. He is a politician, but a politician of the useful type. He has shown remarkable fertility of resource in all the emergencies of politics during the past quarter of a century. He is a partisan of the unflinching type, but withal a statesman of keen discernment and high usefulness. He is one of the class of tried and proved men of ability and leaders of parties whom any state ought to be proud to keep as her representative in the highest councils of the nation. We shall be surprised if the people of Ohio do not find the means even in the existing tangle, to return him to the senate.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE.

Marked Benefit in Indigestion.

Dr A L HALL, Fair Haven, N Y, says: "Have prescribed it with marked benefit in indigestion and urinary troubles."

POLITICAL EXPRESSION

Chicago Inter Ocean: The real temperance people [illegible] unite to protect themselves from the curse of the trade in whisky, and say as many [illegible] [illegible] protectionists would, "a wrong, a complicated thing."

New [illegible]: When the question of admitting South Dakota into the Union as a state comes [illegible] congress, it will be interesting to see how far [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] political parties is influenced by the important partisan [illegible].

[illegible] Inquiry: A repudiator of democratic principles in general, the Pennsylvania democrat [illegible] conspicuous success. It is only when he [illegible] to repudiating republican principles and republican majorities that the [illegible] democrat is a lamentable failure.

Boston Journal: It is taught that, so far from stating frankly to the country its reasons for such pensions and removals this administration has even concealed from the decapitated [illegible] themselves the charges which were the pretext for the removal and the names of their accusers.

New York Herald: If the people of Southern Dakota—now estimated at 80,000 in number—should apply with unanimity it will be much more difficult for congress to refuse the demand than it was when it was proposed to divide the nominee area and admit the southern half into the Union three years ago.

New York Times (Mug.): The leading republicans of this state fully understand the cause of the defeat last year and seem to be ready at last to acknowledge it, and they do not propose to admit that the party is demolished. They believe that it can afford to take a bold stand, declare its principles anew and make nominations with a view to restoring confidence.

An Efficient Remedy

In all cases of Bronchial and Pulmonary Affections is AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. As such it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession, and in many thousands of families, for the past forty years, it has been regarded as an invaluable household remedy. It is a preparation that only requires to be taken in very small quantities, and a few doses of it administered in the early stages of a cold or cough will effect a speedy cure, and may, very possibly, save life. There is no doubt whatever that

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Has preserved the lives of great numbers of persons, by arresting the development of Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Pulmonary Consumption, and by the cure of those dangerous maladies. It should be kept ready for use in every family where there are children, as it is a medicine far superior to all others in the treatment of Croup, the alleviation of Whooping Cough, and the cure of Colds and Influenza, ailments peculiarly incidental to childhood and youth. Promptitude in dealing with all diseases of this class is of the utmost importance. The loss of a single day may, in many cases, entail fatal consequences. Do not waste precious time in experimenting with medicines of doubtful efficacy, while the malady is constantly gaining a deeper hold, but take at once the speediest and most certain to cure,
